

UNCG Department of Psychology
Presents the Spring 2018
Kendon Smith Lecture Series:

Posttraumatic Stress Disorder: From the Lab to the Clinic

April 12 - 13, 2018

Thursday April 12, 2018

School of Education Building, Room 114

1:30pm – 3:00pm

Dr. J Gayle Beck

Professor of Psychology
University of Memphis

“Does the Psychological Context of Trauma Matter?
An Alternative Approach to Comorbidity”

3:15pm – 4:30pm

Dr. Terence Keane

Professor of Psychiatry and Assistant Dean for Research
Boston University School of Medicine

“Project VALOR: Using Patient Registries to Inform Research on Psychopathology, Outcomes, and Utilization”

Friday April 13, 2018

Elliot University Center (EUC) Auditorium

9:00am – 10:30am

Dr. Paula Schnurr

Professor of Psychiatry
Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth

“The State of the Evidence on Psychotherapy for PTSD”

10:45am – 12:00pm

Dr. Patricia Resick

Professor in Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences
Duke University School of Medicine

“The Evolution of Cognitive Processing Therapy”

The Kendon Smith Lectures are free and open to the public. For disability accommodations, or other information, please contact Melanie Carter at Melanie.carter@uncg.edu or 336-334- 5480.

More information, including directions and information about parking, is available at :
<https://psy.uncg.edu/category/events/>

The Spring 2018 series was organized by Dr. Blair Wisco and the KSL Planning Committee.

UNCG